

Philip Malloy, PT, PhD, Arcadia University

Overview:

Dr. Malloy has developed an online course to teach clinicians how to review disseminated research findings to then decide if the clinician should incorporate the findings into their own clinical practice. This course was designed as a didactic teaching tool for residents and fellows to meet the required learning dimensions for critical inquiry principles and methods for accredited residency and fellowship programs within the APTA.