

Children's Healthcare of Atlanta Sports Residency Program
Julie Johnson
julie.johnson@choa.org

Overview:

Children's Healthcare of Atlanta (CHOA) Sports Residency Program has a Learning Services Department that offers comprehensive programs and educational resources to support professional development and leadership. One of the Sports Residency Program goals is to develop competent mentors, instructors and leaders in the field of sports physical therapy. This is achieved through the provision of formal training in leadership development and organizational effectiveness via instructor-led and computer based training courses. The program has shared descriptions of the courses that their residents are required to take as part of our emphasis on developing competent leaders. It is important to note how this program has leveraged resources within their organization to maximize leadership development.